Kelsey and Jeffrey were law school classmates who just happened to meet and fall in love. Then, one day, Jeffrey got down on one knee at Austin's famously romantic Mount Bonnell and proposed, and Kelsey knew her life would never be the same. The pair wed on a slightly overcast day in autumn, which the bride says made for a "hauntingly beautiful" backdrop. They exchanged vows in a traditional Catholic ceremony, in the presence of 200 special loved ones, and then gathered everyone together to celebrate at chic, sophisticated Hotel ZaZa. "A very special moment for us was our 'first look' at each other, on the Black Label Suite balcony," recalls the bride, who dazzled her groom in her gorgeous Monique Lhuillier gown. Surrounded by candlelight and beautiful blooms in ivory, pink and lavender, the newlyweds and their guests enjoyed an enchanted evening of dancing, dining and blissful romance.

"The day was slightly overcast and hauntingly beautiful, which made our first look on the Black Label Suite balcony even more special."
