07.19.14 Listen up, ladies: There's something to be said for making the first move. Just ask Houston bride Brittney—who may never have ended up with the love of her life if she hadn't asked handsome Randy for his digits at that Southern Methodist University dorm icebreaker 10 years back. "We ended up talking for hours on end," she recalls, "then officially started dating on Sept. 24, 2004...and the rest is history!" At the couple's beautiful Chateau Cocomar wedding, the groom, whose family hails from Ghana, changed into traditional Ghanaian clothing halfway through the reception and delighted in watching his family shower his bride in money—a Ghanaian tradition that Brittney says, "was a complete surprise to me, but made for an awesome story and a unique experience at our wedding."
